OUR STORY AND MISSION

Our Beginnings

Founder and CEO Jeff Osterfeld started his journey toward building our award-winning* sandwich restaurant right out of college. He opened his first deli in 1983, and that's where he learned his renowned leadership and business skills. On a trip to Philadelphia, Jeff became inspired by the Philly cheesesteak. With those new flavors in mind, Jeff came up with an idea — hot-grilled subs made on display in an upscale, quick-serve concept. Jeff opened his first Penn Station in 1985. The Philly cheesesteak was on the menu along with fresh-cut fries and fresh-squeezed lemonade.

The fresh ingredients and display cooking were a hit with customers. Just three short years later, Jeff sold his first Penn Station East Coast Subs franchise restaurant. Today, we're serving hot-grilled subs and fresh-cut fries in more than 300 locations in 15 states, and we continue to expand.

Wraps/Salads

Customers are looking for lighter options now. At Penn Station East Coast Subs, they can skip the bread with tasty salad or wrap options. Lighter doesn't have to mean boring.

Grilled and Cold Subs

We're known for our hot-grilled subs that come in creative concoctions like Pizza, Chicken Cordon Bleu, of course Cheesesteak. But we still serve the cold deli classics as well as vegetarian options. All our premium flavors are served between two pieces of hearth-baked bread.
